SECTION ONE – Analysis of Communities

Provide an analysis that identifies the neighborhoods or communities from which the greatest number of juvenile delinquents and persons in need of supervision (PINS) are remanded to detention or residentially placed. Note any communities or neighborhoods that are different than in last year's plan. Please ensure that your identification of target areas or populations is clearly highlighted in your plan.

Nassau County is a large, diverse community with a population of 1.3 million people. Focused reform efforts partially funded by the NYS Office of Family and Children's Services and Division of Criminal Justice Services have allowed us to continue to build upon our declining juvenile arrest rate and significantly reduce our use of detention and out of home placement. Fewer youth are being arrested (750 in 2010 compared to 429 in 2013) and, for those who are, enhanced services are diverting more of them from further penetrating the juvenile justice system. Our success is reflected in the reduced number of detention beds certified in Nassau County (from 32 beds in 2011 to eight since 2012), as well as a reduction in the number of juveniles on probation (386 in January 2010 versus 64 in June 2014).

Despite these accomplishments, a disproportionate number of Nassau County's JD arrests occur in our minority communities. Notably, Hempstead, Westbury, Uniondale, Freeport and Roosevelt account for nearly 60% of the arrests.
