DSS-296EL (REV. 9/89)
I. Purpose

The purpose of this directive is to provide policy implications and guidance to social service districts and voluntary child caring agencies which serve foster children and their families regarding Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992. This directive also advises districts and agencies of the promulgation of regulations relative to Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992. Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992, which became effective on July 31, 1992, amended Sections 409-e and 409-f of the Social Services Law (SSL). Primarily these amendments:

- required that in foster care cases specified information be documented in the case assessment; and that specified assessment and service plan information be given to the parent or guardian of a child entering foster care, to the counsel for the parent or guardian and to the child's law guardian.

Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992 required this Department to issue regulations in order to implement certain provisions in the statute. Those regulations, a copy of which are set forth in Attachment B of this directive, became effective December 15, 1993. They require social services districts and voluntary child care agencies to share certain statutorily required case record information with specified parties.

II. Background

The Department issued 93 ADM-19, prior to filing the regulations in order to provide interim implementation procedures for Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992. This directive includes all of the mandates of Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992 and fully replaces 93 ADM-19, which is cancelled with the effective date of this release.

Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992 amended Sections 409-e and 409-f of the SSL which were originally part of the Child Welfare Reform Act of 1979. The standards set in these sections were officially implemented on April 1, 1981 when the standards for Uniform Case Recording became effective. The requirements for establishing and maintaining the Uniform Case Record (UCR) are set forth in Department Regulations, 18 NYCRR Part 428. Greater detail can be found in the Uniform Case Record Desk Aid originally issued in 1981 (as the Uniform Case Recording Standards Casework Manual) which was completely revised in April 1985. Periodically, the Department has issued other directives and letters pertaining to working with parents or guardians of children in foster care, including practice issues such as permanency planning (86 INF-43), formulating service goals (87 INF-24), and service plan review standards (88 ADM-27). These documents all share a common theme of promoting the importance of client participation and involvement in the development and effective implementation of service plans, in joint decision making, and in information sharing.
The Department is in the midst of implementing the New York State Risk Assessment and Service Planning Model for use with all child protective cases, including foster care cases that are open with the Statewide Central Register of Child Abuse and Maltreatment. A recent Department study has shown that almost three quarters of the foster care population came into the system through child protective cases.* In order to implement this new model the Department created a series of new "risk-based" UCR forms which replace the existing UCR forms for all child protective service (CPS) cases. These forms incorporate the case documentation requirements of the non-risk UCR while adding important risk assessment and service planning components. This directive sets out differing requirements for those districts and agencies that have completed the training program and are now using the Risk Assessment and Services Planning Model.

III. Program Implications

A. The Assessment:

Section 409-e (1)(d) of the SSL, as amended by Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992, sets forth certain items which must be included in the assessment performed when children enter foster care. Please note that most of these items do not represent new requirements as previous regulations already contained similar requirements supported by the UCR forms. The items are listed below, followed by suggestions for documenting them within the UCR. Please be aware that this assessment information must be shared with the parent or guardian of a child entering foster care, the counsel for the parent or guardian, and the foster child's law guardian.

- Reasonable efforts made to prevent or eliminate the need for placement or the reason such efforts were not made:

  If placement occurs prior to completion of the Initial Assessment and Service Plan, this information should be documented on the Initial Assessment and Service Plan: Section 3: Actions To Date.

  If placement occurs subsequent to completion of the Initial Assessment and Service Plan, therefore requiring completion of a Plan Amendment, this information should be documented on the Plan Amendment: Section 6: Placement.

If your district or agency is using the New York State Risk Assessment and Service Planning Model (Risk Assessment District):

If placement occurs as a result of a CPS report, and placement occurs prior to completion of the Preliminary Assessment Of Safety (PAS), this information should be documented on the PAS: Section 3: Safety Response; or if placement occurs as a result of a CPS report, and placement occurs subsequent to completion of the PAS but prior to completion of the Initial Risk Assessment and Service Plan: this information should be documented on the Initial Risk Assessment and Service Plan: Section 1: Case Update Part A.

If placement occurs in an indicated CPS case subsequent to the completion of the Initial Risk Assessment and Service Plan, therefore requiring completion of a Plan Amendment, this information should be documented on the Plan Amendment-Rev.: Section 5: Placement.

Please note the current regulations (18 NYCRR 431.10) and 92 ADM-24 already require this item, but the Initial Assessment and Service plan form does not specify this particular item. It will be incorporated into a future revision of this form.

If placement occurs subsequent to completion of the Initial Assessment and Service Plan, therefore requiring completion of a Plan Amendment, this information should be documented on the Plan Amendment: Section 8: Placement Or Movement Part c (below the grid). Please note the Plan Amendment (12/84) does not specify this item. When you begin using the Plan Amendment-Rev. you will find this item has been incorporated.

If your district or agency is using the New York State Risk Assessment and Service Planning Model (Risk Assessment District):

If placement occurs as the result of a CPS report, and placement occurs prior to completion of the Initial Risk Assessment and Service Plan, this information should be documented on the Initial Risk Assessment and Service Plan: Section 3: Appropriateness Of Placement Part C (below the grid).

Be sure to include Anticipated Completion Dates with Permanency Planning Goal changes.

° Plan for termination of services under appropriate circumstances, with specific explanation of the reasons for such termination plan:

Since this is more closely related to the service plan than the assessment, it will be covered in the service plan section below.
Please refer to ATTACHMENT A: ASSESSMENT DOCUMENTATION "QUICK FIND" for a summary of the assessment requirements of Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992 and the suggested areas for documenting this information in the UCR.

B. The Service Plan:

Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992 also amended Section 409-e (2) of the SSL relating to the service plan. These amendments contained no new documentation requirements. The amended language reinforces current regulations and good practice requirements that the service plan identify "...necessary and appropriate services and assistance to the child and members of the child's family. The services so identified shall, before being included in the family service plan, be assessed to determine the projected effectiveness of such plan...". The statute lists several factors that should be taken into consideration when developing a service plan. Caseworkers should ensure that each is taken into consideration when developing goals or outcomes and related actions, tasks and activities.

° The family's concurrence with the plan:

Respecting and involving the family are fundamental practice standards and are of great importance in achieving family reunification. Case planners should strive to obtain input from all family members in order to develop a meaningful service plan and should particularly consider any areas of disagreement between the agency service planner or provider and any family member that is part of the service plan. Efforts should be made to resolve those differences and achieve some level of consensus before incorporating these items into the plan. When disagreement persists, especially where failure to reach agreement may significantly jeopardize the prospects for a child returning home, recommendations to the court for imposition of a court ordered plan should be considered.

° The ability and motivation of the family to access services, including geographic accessibility:

Even when family members agree with the elements of the service plan, these two other important factors (access and motivation) should be considered when developing the specifics of service provision and the roles of family members in performing the tasks and activities. Access to services should be provided within the confines of the family members' own neighborhoods or close to their residence(s) whenever possible. Any reasonable means which provide services more conveniently to family members should be sought. Access barriers should be thoroughly explored, such as transportation needs, necessary child care arrangements and suitability of appointment times.
Level of motivation, as well as cooperation, should be observed. The service plan should be geared incrementally to those levels even though there is agreement as to the general service plan. For example, case planners should consider the family member's ability to engage in multiple tasks, or complicated tasks or consider readiness for even what may be considered a fairly simple task. Where the level of motivation may be low for any reason, strong consideration should be given to simpler tasks, breaking tasks down into smaller steps, and adding new features to the plan as positive results occur. The family member's sense of accomplishment may increase levels of motivation and cooperation as time goes by, producing more positive results in the long run.

The relatedness of the services to the family's needs and its socio-economic and cultural circumstances:

Consideration of cultural and ethnic factors must be weighed in order to design a meaningful, relevant and useful service plan. Cultural and ethnic sensitivity, as well as awareness of individual differences within a group, should be a constant concern of service planners. It is important to choose services that family members can relate to and those that can build upon the cultural and ethnic strengths and resources of family members. These strengths and resources may include skills, behaviors and attitudes. Service agencies and providers should be carefully selected for their cultural and ethnic knowledge and compatibility whenever possible in order to help family members feel comfortable and understood. For example, knowledge of a particular group's child rearing practices at each developmental stage may be vital to successful outcomes or achievement of goals. Accurate assessment of such factors as literacy, oral comprehension skills and English language proficiency also may be critical for developing a service plan and maximizing its success.

Evaluation of a family's basic needs must be placed within the context of the socio-economic circumstances of the family. The realities of poverty, must be taken into consideration and these realities may be out of the control of the family members. A family with children in foster care, often does not have the resources to help offset the impact of situational stress producing events or personal problems. These stressors and/or problems are often closely associated with living in poverty. Case planners can help by providing or coordinating a range of services which may need to emphasize concrete assistance such as remediation of safety and health hazards, emergency cash and goods, housing, etc. Those goals or outcomes that realistically can result in a range of improvements in family functioning that will enable them to ultimately provide care and nurturance to their children in a safe environment should be encouraged. It is important to distinguish basic needs from cultural norms when planning services.

Other factors which may impact upon the effectiveness of such plan:

Other factors for effective services planning should be considered, particularly clarity and specificity of each of the service plan elements (i.e. goals, outcomes, tasks, activities, etc.). Family members are more inclined to move in a positive direction toward goal or outcome achievement if they understand the positive implications of the service plan elements. A family must know what is expected to occur and why it is important. Service plans that are vague, unachievable, or not verifiable can demoralize and confuse family members.

In addition, striving for service plan outcomes that logically build from family member's assets and/or competencies may help to bring about positive change in a family. This will require case planning staff to be as attuned to identifying family members' strengths and even limited capabilities as they are to family problems and risk factors.

As previously referenced, Section 409-e (1)(d) of the SSL requires that the assessment that follows a foster care placement must document the plan for termination of services under appropriate circumstances. Moreover, specific explanation of the reasons for the termination plan must be included. In both the Initial Assessment and Service Plan, and the Initial Risk Assessment and Service Plan, if the termination plan is known at that time, it should be incorporated into the "Actions Planned" area. Likewise, if placement occurs subsequent to the completion of the Initial Assessment and Service Plan or Initial Risk Assessment and Service Plan, the plan for termination of services should be incorporated into Section 9: Plan (12/84 Plan Amendment) or Section 8: Plan Modifications (Plan Amendment-Rev.) whichever is appropriate. More than likely, however, that degree of information will not be known at such an early stage of case development. Case planners often may be uncertain as to how and when family members will achieve a sufficient level of progress in order to terminate services, and whether that level of progress, if achieved, can remain stable or can be maintained without such services.
C. Disseminating Information:

THE SERVICE PLAN AND VISITING PLAN:

Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992 required that the first service plan following a child's placement in foster care be shared with the child's parent or guardian within ten days of plan preparation. This applies to the initial service plan, if the child's placement is prior to completion of the Initial UCR or, when placement occurs after the completion of the initial UCR, it applies to the plan portion of the plan amendment recording the placement status change and those aspects of the previous plan that are still relevant. The statute requires that such plan be developed in consultation with the child's parent or guardian, unless such person is unavailable or unwilling to participate, or such participation would be harmful to the child, and with the foster child if the child is ten years of age or older, and encourages participation of the foster child's siblings, where appropriate. The statute requires that such consultation be done in person, unless such a meeting is impracticable or would be harmful to the child.

These requirements expand upon other similar requirements to share service plan information as a component of the service plan review process.* Service plan reviews are required to be conducted in conjunction with preparation of the comprehensive and reassessment service plans.

In order to comply with Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992 and the provision regarding in-person consultation detailed above, it is important to follow the good practice considerations for service plan development that are detailed in Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992 and the guidelines pertinent to those considerations that are contained in Section III.B. of this directive. The plan required as a result of a child entering foster care must be completed within 30 days of the child's entry into foster care. The ten day time frame for sharing information is shorter and more explicit than the requirements for sharing later plans. Visiting plans also must be shared in conjunction with all shared service plans.

ASSESSMENT INFORMATION:

The documented assessment information described earlier in this section (III.A), also must be shared with the child's parent or guardian. The time frames for development and sharing this information are identical to those described above for the service plan and visiting plan.

* Refer to 18 NYCRR 430.12 (c) (2) and 88 ADM-27 for complete information concerning sharing subsequent service plans and visiting plans. Also note, Chapter 538 of the Laws of 1992, effective September 1, 1992, requires that the court must give a copy of "...the child services plan" to the respondent, in conjunction with an extension of placement hearing determination pursuant to Section 1055 (b)(iv)(B) of the Family Court Act.
OTHER SPECIFIED INDIVIDUALS:

The same information (assessment and service plan and visiting plan) must be shared with the counsel for the parent or guardian and the child's law guardian. The ten day time frame is also required.

Lastly, Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992 required information sharing when a fair hearing is conducted concerning a child in foster care. Depending on the specific nature of the hearing, relevant portions of the foster child's UCR must be made available to the child's parent or guardian, counsel for the parent or guardian, and the child's law guardian, if the law guardian is a participant in the fair hearing.

FORMAT:

In an effort to provide flexibility, several options for the format of the material to be shared are allowed. Because the information will be documented among different questions on either the Initial Assessment and Service Plan or Initial Risk Assessment and Service Plan, or the Plan Amendment and the plan previous to the Plan Amendment when all or part of it is still in effect, one option is to photocopy just the sections that contain the required information. Alternatively, the information can be compiled on pages other than UCR forms, or in some combination with them. An example of the latter might be to photocopy the Service Plan directly from the UCR and compose a separate document for the specific purpose of providing the required assessment information. If another form, other than the UCR, already exists that meets any of the requirements, that too can be used. An example of this is using the court order that must contain reasonable efforts to prevent placement, to achieve compliance with sharing that piece of information. Lastly, sharing a complete copy of the relevant UCR form is also an option. It may be clinically useful on a case-by-case basis to share the UCR form in its entirety. It should be noted that the courts, however, have always had the right to order disclosure of records concerning the individual cases being heard. Moreover, pursuant to section 422.4 of the SSL, most material contained in a CPS case record, including assessment and service plan information, is available to the subjects and other persons named in the report upon their request.

D. Additional Implications Regarding Sharing HIV-Related Information With Parent or Guardian, Counsel for Parent or Guardian, or Law Guardian:

When any UCR document or other document may be shared regarding a child in foster care and such document contains confidential HIV-related information about the foster child, the requirements of Section 2782 of the Public Health Law (PHL) and Section 373-a of the SSL apply. Section 2782 of the PHL specifies the persons or entities to whom disclosure and redisclosure of confidential HIV-related information may be made. Section 373-a of the SSL specifies the persons to whom confidential HIV-related information regarding foster children must be disclosed. Applicable provisions of these statutes which supersede the requirements of Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992 are:

° Confidential HIV-related information must be disclosed to a foster child's parent or guardian, except in circumstances where the foster child has capacity to consent to such disclosure; in such cases, the foster child must provide written consent for such disclosure. ("Capacity to consent" is defined in 18 NYCRR 360-1.8(a)(8). See, also: 18 NYCRR 357.3 (b) (5) and 431.7 (a) (3).)

° Confidential HIV-related information may not be disclosed to counsel for the parent or guardian unless the foster child provides written consent to such disclosure if such child has capacity to consent to the disclosure of confidential HIV-related information, or if the foster child lacks capacity to consent to the disclosure unless a person who is authorized to consent to medical care for the foster child gives consent to the disclosure.

° When requested by a law guardian who represents a foster child, an authorized agency must disclose confidential HIV-related information concerning the foster child to the law guardian for purposes of representing the foster child. However, the law guardian must not redisclose such information if the foster child has capacity to consent unless the child provides written consent to such disclosure. If the child lacks the capacity to consent, the law guardian may redisclose confidential HIV-related information for the sole purpose of representing the child. (See, also: 18NYCRR 431.7 (d).)

For further guidance about disclosure of HIV-related information, refer to 91 ADM-36.

IV. Required Action

Social services district and voluntary agency staff who serve foster children and their families must implement the following procedures in order to comply with Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992:

1. Documentation of the statutorily required assessment elements is required as specified in the Program Implications section (III.A.).

2. Case planners must document the plan for termination of services, if that is known.

3. Service plans must be prepared in consultation with the child's parent or guardian, the foster child and the siblings of the foster child except where the statute lists an exception as described in the Program Implications section (III.C.). Case planners must consider the statutorily prescribed factors when developing service plans for children in foster care and their families. These considerations also apply to all reviews and revisions of the family service plan. The factors to consider are listed and described in the Program Implications section (III.B.).

4. Within ten days of preparation of an Initial Assessment and Service Plan, Initial Risk Assessment and Service Plan or Plan Amendment which was prepared because a child was entering or reentering foster care, relevant portions of the assessment and a complete copy of the child and family service plan and visiting plan must be given to the child's parent or guardian, counsel for such parent or guardian, and the child's law guardian, if any.

Note: Relevant portions of the assessment required by Chapter 725 of the Laws of 1992 and suggested documentation location on the appropriate UCR form are contained on the Assessment Documentation "Quick Find"; Attachment A to this directive.

5. Subsequent service plans and visiting plans are to be provided in accordance with the provisions of 18 NYCRR 430.12 (c)(2).

6. The required information may be supplied by using any of the options below:

   a) a copy of the relevant pages of the Initial Assessment and Service Plan or Initial Risk Assessment and Service Plan or Plan Amendment form; or

   b) a document or documents other than the the forms noted in item a), or in combination with any sections or parts of the forms noted in item a) which contains the required information; or

   c) a complete copy of the appropriate UCR form and, if such form is the Plan Amendment, a document that includes all parts of the family and children's service plan that are in effect.

7. In-person delivery of the documents by the tenth day following preparation of the required UCR form, or the mailing of such documents by the tenth day will constitute an acceptable standard for meeting the statutory time frame requirements.

8. When a fair hearing has been requested in accordance with Section 22 of the SSL, a copy of the portions of the UCR relevant to the hearing must be made available to the child's parent or guardian, counsel for the parent or guardian, and the child's law guardian, if the law guardian is participating in the hearing.
V. System Implications

None.

VI. Effective Date

Requirements 4, 6, and 7 of Part IV of this directive are effective on July 1, 1994, retroactive to December 15, 1993, the date the regulations took effect. All other requirements, including sharing service plan and visiting plan information with parents or guardians took effect on September 1, 1993.
