Section 2

I. Summary

This ADM outlines an administrative procedure for child welfare and child support workers at the social services district level to access and obtain absent parent location information from the Federal Parent Locator Service (FPLS). The FPLS will be used for purposes of establishing parentage and developing permanency plans in relation to the provision of child welfare services, which include child protective services, preventive services, foster care and adoption. Section 453 of the federal Social Security Act and related federal policy guidance provide that the State foster care and child welfare agency is authorized to request certain information from the FPLS for the specific purpose of locating or facilitating the identification of an individual who has or may have parental rights in order to make more informed and timely decisions about permanency.

II. Purpose

This directive sets forth an interim manual administrative procedure to allow child welfare workers in a social services district to access the FPLS until CONNECTIONS Build 19 is implemented and the process becomes automated. Use of the FPLS for child welfare cases was authorized by the federal Adoption and Safe Families Act (ASFA) of 1997 (Public Law 105-89) which, in part, amended Title IV-D, section 453. Through the FPLS, absent parents in child welfare cases can be located for the purpose of establishing parentage and achieving permanent plans for children. Child welfare cases include child protective services, preventive services, foster care and adoption services cases. They also include foster care cases where the child is in the legal custody of the Commissioner of the Office of Children and Family Services (OCFS). Since federal law and regulations (45 CFR 303.70) currently authorize only the state’s Title IV-D Child Support Enforcement Agency State Parent Locator Service to transmit child welfare agency’s requests for information to the FPLS, such requests must be made through the child support enforcement program (that is, the local district Child Support Enforcement Unit [CSEU]).

III. Background

The FPLS is a computerized network of information on individuals, including their Social Security numbers, most recent home address, wage and benefit information, and employment data. The FPLS obtains such information from federal agencies, including the Internal Revenue Service, the Department of Defense, the National Personnel Records Center, the Social Security Administration, the Department of Veteran’s Affairs and State Employment Security Agencies. In addition, states report newly hired employees to a National Directory of New Hires, which is also part of FPLS. The Federal Case Registry is a “pointer” system to all of the databases accessed through the FPLS.

When removal of a child is a possibility in child protective services cases, the social services district must identify and evaluate placement options for the purpose of permanency planning. Section 1017 of the Family Court Act was recently amended to require a social services district, in any abuse or neglect proceeding involving the removal of a child, to conduct an immediate investigation of a non-respondent parent and to report to the court on whether such person may be a suitable placement for the child or children. When any child is at risk of placement into foster care or enters the foster care system, it is essential that the child’s parents, including any absent parent, be identified and located as soon as possible. When a child is in foster care and adoption is the permanency goal, it is also essential to address issues relating to parental rights. Once the absent parent is identified and located, the child’s caseworker can attempt to contact the absent parent with regard to their custodial availability, interest and/or capability as part of developing a permanency plan for the foster child. Even if an absent parent is unable to provide a permanent home for the child, if the whereabouts and circumstances of all parents are known, the agency and the court can move more expeditiously toward adoption or another permanent placement. An absent parent may also provide information on other relatives that can be explored as possible permanency resources. Please note that the FPLS is not available for direct requests to locate information on relatives other than the absent parent.

Recognizing the role that absent parents may take, the federal Office of Child Support Enforcement and the federal Administration for Children and Families Children’s Bureau issued Information Memorandums OCSE IM-99-01 and ACYF-CB IM-99-02, respectively, regarding use of the FPLS for child welfare services for specific purposes authorized by statute and related federal policy guidance. The purpose of both releases was to inform relevant state agencies of the capacity to use the FPLS to locate or facilitate the identification of an individual who is or may be a child’s parent, and to make more informed decisions about permanency planning.

IV. Program Implications

Social services district child welfare workers and OCFS Division of Rehabilitative Services (DRS) workers may request authorized FPLS information from their local child support enforcement workers to locate or facilitate identification of an individual who has or may have parental rights. DRS workers may request such authorized FPLS information from the CSEU in the social services district of the Family Court that placed the child in foster care. Using the FPLS may assist these workers to make more informed and timely decisions about permanency. The CSEU will submit the case information via the Child Support Management System (CSMS) to the FPLS, and send any information received from the FPLS back to the requesting child welfare or DRS worker. The response may include an absent parent’s: SSN; address or location; employer’s name and address; and employment wages, benefits or other income. Where a Family Violence Indicator is included on a case known to the Federal Case Registry, no information on a person or persons (including children) who is/are known to be the victim of the violence will be transmitted pursuant to this procedure. A Family Violence Indicator flags information and suppresses release of such information. A Family Violence Indicator is not linked to the perpetrator of the violence.

V.
Required Action

A. Child Welfare/DRS Worker Actions

1. Complete the child welfare worker portion of the Transmittal for Federal Parent Locator Service Search Form (see Attachment A). In order to utilize the FPLS, the following information must be supplied on the Transmittal Form: name of the absent parent for whom the location information is requested, his/her Social Security number, date of birth (if known) and child’s name. If the absent parent’s Social Security number and date of birth are not known, at least two of the following three absent parent data elements must be included: absent parent’s father’s last name, absent parent’s mother’s maiden name, absent parent’s city and state of birth.

2. Forward the Transmittal Form to the local CSEU, requesting that the CSEU access the FPLS to search for the person in question.

B. Child Support Enforcement Worker Actions

1. Upon receipt of a Transmittal Form, build a new case in CSMS and open an FPLS search as follows:

   In IVDCAB
   a. Access IVDCAB
   b. In client field, enter SEARCH, _ FPLS
   c. Under RESPONDENTS, enter absent parent’s name LAST NAME, _ FIRST NAME
   d. Enter absent parent’s SSN and DOB (if known)
   e. In WKR field enter appropriate worker code
   f. In TYP field enter “5”
   g. In CSS APP date field, enter date of referral
   h. In LOC field, enter “X”
   i. XMT, enter “CB1”

   In IVDCB1
   a. Enter child’s name LAST NAME, _ FIRST NAME
   b. Enter “8” in WI field
   c. Enter “23” in MED INS IND field
   d. XMT, enter “BLD”

   NOTE: if absent parent’s SSN and DOB are unknown go to IVDJRL and enter absent parent’s father’s name, mother’s maiden name and absent parent’s city and state of birth if provided on the Transmittal Form.

2. Enter a tickler date on the CA1 screen for 75 days as a reminder to review the CSMS case for any FPLS information received.
3. Prior to 75 days, review PLS Information Report daily for FPLS information and, as any FPLS information is received, immediately complete item 5 below.

4. Review the Aging Report for the expiration of 75 days, review CSMS for any FPLS information and complete the Transmittal Form as provided in item 5 below.

5. Complete the CSEU worker portion of the Transmittal Form. If taking the action because FPLS information was provided prior to the expiration of 75 days make a copy of the Transmittal Form, complete the copy of the Transmittal and send it, and attachments (if any), immediately to the requesting child welfare/DRS worker. Keep the original Transmittal Form and in the event that new FPLS information is discovered before the expiration of 75 days, repeat the foregoing process as necessary. At the end of the 75-day period, return the original Transmittal Form and any new attachments to the child welfare/DRS worker. On any Transmittal to the child welfare/DRS worker, check the appropriate box as to whether there was, or was not, any FPLS absent parent address/employer information received. If there is absent parent address/employer information, print out the CSMS IVDJRA and/or IVDJRE screen(s) and attach them to the Transmittal Form (see Attachments B and C).

6. Forward the Transmittal Form and attachments (if any) to the requesting child welfare/DRS worker.
