Report on the Supervision and Treatment Services for Juveniles Program

Pursuant to Executive Law §529-b (5)

Introduction

Since its inception in 2011, the Supervision and Treatment Services for Juveniles Program (STSJP) has been a key component of Governor Cuomo's vision to transform New York State's (NYS) youth justice system. STSJP provides funding to municipalities (counties and New York City) for programs and services that address the needs of youth who are at risk or already involved in the justice system. STSJP-funded programs provide targeted interventions in settings that are family-focused, close to home and within the community. Although STSJP can be used to fund services across the continuum from prevention to reentry, emphasis is placed on funding programs that enable municipalities to serve youth in the least restrictive, appropriate setting possible while preserving public safety. STSJP provides fiscal incentives that encourage municipalities to develop and utilize community-based programs intended to divert youth from unnecessary placement in detention or residential care. This includes youth at risk of, alleged to be, or adjudicated as juvenile delinquents; youth alleged or adjudicated to be persons in need of supervision; and youth alleged to be or convicted as juvenile offenders.

A municipality wishing to provide services with STSJP funds must first submit an annual plan to the NYS Office of Children and Family Services (OCFS) detailing which supervision and treatment services will be provided. STSJP plans must include the name of each service and program proposed for funding; the communities and types of youth targeted for the service/program; a description of how the service/program will result in positive outcomes for youth; and the projected number of youth to be served. Municipalities are encouraged to use historical detention and placement data provided by OCFS to identify communities and subpopulations of youth to target for supervision and treatment services. OCFS also makes trained Community Multi-Services Office (CMSO) staff available for technical assistance as municipalities develop their plans.

Once a submitted plan is reviewed and approved, the municipality is eligible to receive 62% State reimbursement for the cost of approved expenditures up to the municipality's capped STSJP allocation amount, which is set through an allocation methodology determined by OCFS. A municipality that wishes to provide additional STSJP services may choose to shift part of its detention allocation to be used for STSJP. Shifted funds spent on STSJP-eligible expenditures receive 62% State reimbursement as opposed to the lower 49% State reimbursement for eligible detention services expenditures.

State Fiscal Year 2016-17

The 2016-2017 enacted budget changed the STSJP program year, which previously ran from April 1st - March 31st, to now run from October 1st - September 30th, allowing for planning time between budget passage and the start of the STSJP program year. The 2016–2017 enacted budget also allowed for a transition period to the new STSJP program year of October 1, 2016 – September 30, 2017. During this transition period, municipalities were permitted to continue operating 2015–2016 programs through September 30, 2016, by amending their approved 2015–2016 STSJP plans. Thirty-nine municipalities applied to amend their 2015-2016 plans to continue programming until September 30, 2016, requesting a total estimated state share of $4.6 million to support programming during the transition period.

$8,376,000 in STSJP funding was appropriated for NYS Fiscal Year (SFY) 2016-2017, $500,000 of which was allotted to six municipalities (counties of: Albany, Erie, Monroe, Onondaga, Nassau and Orange) to support coordination and implementation of the Juvenile Detention Alternatives Initiative (JDAI). JDAI is a national system-reform initiative coordinated by the Annie E. Casey Foundation, the primary goal of which is to reduce the unnecessary and inappropriate use of detention without compromising public safety.

During SFY 2016-2017, STSJP-funded programs were projected to serve 9,312 youth and families across 46 municipalities; 12 municipalities did not submit 2016-17 STSJP plans (counties of: Chemung, Fulton, Greene, Hamilton, Lewis, Montgomery, Ontario, Orleans, Schoharie, Sullivan, Wayne and Yates).

Because of the shift in the STSJP Program Year (PY), municipalities are currently operating under PY 2016-2017 and are planning for PY 2017-2018. The following data are current as of July 17, 2017.
